Management Report of Fund Performance

For the six-month period ended June 30, 2023

Investment Objective and Strategy

The fundamental investment objective of First Trust Cloud Computing ETF (the “First Trust ETF”) is to replicate, to the extent possible, the performance of an index of U.S. companies involved in the cloud computing industry, initially the ISE CTA Cloud Computing Index™.

The ISE CTA Cloud Computing Index™ is a modified equal weighted index designed to track the performance of companies involved in the cloud computing industry. To be included in the index, a security must be classified as a Cloud Computing company by the Consumer Technology Association.

Risk

The First Trust ETF provides exposure to its new index by investing all or substantially all of its assets in an underlying U.S. index fund known as First Trust Cloud Computing ETF (the “Underlying Fund”), which is managed by the First Trust ETF's portfolio advisor.

The risks associated with an investment in the First Trust ETF is discussed in the First Trust ETF's most recent prospectus.

Results of Operations

General

The First Trust ETF's net asset value as of June 30, 2023 was $2,659,755 or $17.73 per unit. The First Trust ETF's net asset value as of December 31, 2022 was $2,064,161 or $13.76 per unit.

There were no cash distributions paid nor declared for the six-month period ended June 30, 2023.

Investment Performance

For the six-month period ended June 30, 2023, the First Trust ETF returned 28.85% compared to the S&P 500® Index (the “benchmark”) return of 14.16%. Unlike the benchmark, the First Trust ETF's return is net of fees and expenses.

The First Trust ETF's only holding, the Underlying Fund, held 64 equity securities as of June 30, 2023. The top ten equity holdings for the Underlying Fund accounted for 38.18% of the portfolio within the Underlying Fund.

The Underlying Fund outperformed the benchmark during the period due to an overweight allocation in Information Technology, which thrived during the AI rally of the first half of the year. The outperformance was partially offset by stock selection in Information Technology, particularly in Software and in Technology Hardware, Storage & Peripherals.

The Underlying Fund's top five stocks by contribution to return were MongoDB, Inc., AppLovin Corporation, Amazon.com, Inc., Oracle Corporation, and Microsoft Corporation. The bottom five stocks by contribution to return were Lumen Technologies, Inc., Rackspace Technology, Inc., Sprout Social, Inc., BlackLine, Inc., and RingCentral, Inc.

The First Trust's ETF's exposure to the U.S. dollar contributed negatively to its absolute performance during the period as the U.S. dollar depreciated 2.22% against the Canadian dollar from December 31, 2022, to June 30, 2023.

Recent Developments

As computer networks continue to mature and new communication technology transforms how the internet can be utilized, “The Cloud” has emerged as a highly efficient highly scalable set of hardware and software services. Largely, until the 1990s, network speeds were not sufficient to support remote compute and most all software and programs were run on local devices. As better communication technology has allowed for faster interactions between devices and networks, the cloud has emerged as a preferred format for utilizing hardware and software services, servers, storage, networks, applications, and more. A key feature for cloud services is scalability, the ability to ramp up workloads and storage immediately. The advent of cloud-based solutions has led to a rapid emergence of new software, infrastructure, and cloud platform companies. These businesses are exemplified by rapid scalability and 'as-a-service' models. The benefits of cloud-based offerings include low-cost, rapid scalability, reliability, and more secure IT environments. Cloud computing focused companies are well positioned to benefit from the associated changes in IT spending. We have a favorable view of software companies that exhibit high operational leverage, strong secular growth, and generally high cash generation in mature companies.

With the successful release of ChatGPT-3, Artificial Intelligence became a mainstream reality. AI will arguably become the most disruptive general-purpose technology since the iPhone. In fact, in a recent blog post by Bill Gates titled "The Age of AI has Begun," Mr. Gates noted AI is one of the two technological demonstrations that "struck me as revolutionary." He went on to note "...once it had aced the test, we asked it a non-scientific question: 'What do you say to a father with a sick child?' It wrote a thoughtful answer that was probably better than most of us in the room would have given. The whole experience was stunning." We expect AI will indeed be revolutionary. Likely, more impactful than even our high expectations, but taking longer to be implemented and utilized than anticipated. We are optimistic about the technological impact and believe SKYY offers uniquely direct exposure to the technology. Cloud Computing has democratized the computer - eliminating traditional infrastructure costs while increasing the ability to access and process larger data sets. We anticipate that companies utilizing AI will, at least in some part, utilize the cloud for storage, training, hosting, development, processing, and more. Driving this will be the need to utilize higher-performing processors able to satiate the demands of AI-server GPU needs. Generative AI and Large-Language Models (LLMs) are offering new and powerful business opportunities for leading software companies to integrate the new technologies into their businesses to accelerate learning, product development and expand solution sets. This will only increase the need for compute and dependence upon networks.

(1) Management expense ratio is based on total expenses (excluding commissions and other portfolio transaction costs) for the stated period/year, including the First Trust ETF's proportionate share of the MER of the Underlying Fund in which the First Trust ETF has invested, and is expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period/year.

(2) The trading expense ratio represents total commissions and other portfolio transaction costs expressed as an annualized percentage of daily average net asset value during the period/year. This includes the First Trust ETF's proportionate share of the commissions of Underlying Fund in which the First Trust ETF has invested.

(3) The First Trust ETF's portfolio turnover rate indicates how actively the First Trust ETF's portfolio advisor manages its portfolio investments. A portfolio turnover rate of 100% is equivalent to the First Trust ETF buying and selling all of the securities in its portfolio once in the course of the period/year. The higher a First Trust ETF's portfolio turnover rate in a period/year, the greater the trading cost payable by the First Trust ETF in the period/year, and the greater the chance of an investor receiving taxable capital gains in the period/year. There is not necessarily a relationship between high turnover rate and the performance of a First Trust ETF.
